In rural Migyera, Uganda, water has been in critical shortage. Until recently, there was no access to clean water for over 650 students and 1,400 villagers. In 2009, CALU began our QuartersForWater Program. School children across New Jersey raised more than $75,000, which helped finance Phase 1 of the program: locate, drill and build the infrastructure that would deliver water to the St. Lawrence School and Migyera Health Clinic. In the summer of 2014, water began to flow.

Phase 2 of the program is now underway, as we begin to modify homes, one by one, which will be designed and equipped to catch rain water into storage tanks and to construct latrines and hand washing stations. Phase 2 also includes empowering residents through education about hygiene and income-generating opportunities, like soap making. By 2018, our goal is to provide 750 additional people in the village with clean water in their homes and improved sanitation! Please help us bring the gift of water to our friends in Migyera.
